Indiana Philanthropy Alliance Hosts the Bromelkamp Company Annual Learning Academy

Minneapolis, MN; February 29, 2016: Bromelkamp Company has announced the dates and location of its annual learning Academy. Their 2016 partner, Indiana Philanthropy Alliance, is working together with Bromelkamp to host the learning and networking opportunity at the Jackson County Learning Center in Seymour, Indiana from August 9-11. The three day learning opportunity for Pearl users offers a selection of classes for all levels of experience, including sessions for finance, program, administrative, and fundraising staff. There will be two simultaneous learning tracks: one for new users, and another for advanced users. The fund accounting classes are often well-attended; there are also a variety of electives for all participants. Participants enjoy the evening networking event, as well as President Henry Bromelkamp's annual keynote address. The keynote address, which will be presented during lunch on August 10, is broadcast online so that clients who cannot attend Academy can join from their offices.

Why is participation in training important? Bromelkamp Company regularly surveys their clients to measure satisfaction with both the software and their individual experience with Bromelkamp's staff. A common theme identified from the survey results demonstrates that the number one predictor of customer satisfaction is access to regular and affordable training. Participation in training makes a happier client. Bromelkamp Company knows that purchasing software is a significant investment in a foundation's operations, and the reliability of the foundation's data is dependent on the continued and reliable use of the software. An investment in training and staff development will pay dividends into the future. For more information and details, visit our website:

If you are unable to attend the upcoming Academy and would like access to training either in your office or via webinar, contact Jan Maino. She can be reached at jan@bromelkamp.com or by calling 612-767-6701 ext. 27.
