MAYOR'S FUND FOR PHILADELPHIA IMPLEMENTS FIRST AKOYA.NET GRANTS MANAGEMENT SOFTWARE

Minneapolis, MN; March 31, 2016: The Mayor's Fund for Philadelphia has selected First Akoya.net for its integrated data management solution. First Akoya.net is a product of Bromelkamp Company LLC, a leader among grants management software solutions. First Akoya.net is cutting edge and cloud-based foundation technology, encompassing robust CRM and grants management. Bromelkamp is known for its comprehensive understanding of grantmaker's missions, and utilizing that knowledge to bridge their clients with the software functionality.

The Mayor's Fund for Philadelphia selected First Akoya.net because of the ability to easily customize the software to match their unique needs. The Mayor's Fund for Philadelphia's Deputy Director, Jasmine Sessoms states that "we were searching for software that could both track our outgoing funding requests as well as our incoming grant requests. As conversations continued with Bromelkamp Company, we recognized that they understood our needs and could match those needs with software function." The Mayor's Fund for Philadelphia supports many initiatives and requires software that can easily track program results, reporting requirements and funding opportunities. They can rest assured that the First Akoya.net database is customized to meet all these demands.

Once installed, First Akoya.net immediately reduces internal IT overhead, as it does not require a server to store and access a database, and eliminates the costs of installed software and hardware. All staff will have access to the database anywhere with an internet connection, and at any time, and will be able to automate custom workflows and processes through First Akoya.net's robust CRM integration with Microsoft Office. The Mayor's Fund for Philadelphia will not only leverage community funds to improve the quality of life for its residents, they are leveraging operational resources by automating tasks, as Akoya.net business processes and workflows can automate details and functions that once required regular oversight. This frees staff time to focus more on due diligence, relationships, and the foundation's mission.
